WHY IS PPS CONSIDERING THIS?

- Closing an aging building: Moving the program closes the aging East Sylvan building.

REINVESTMENTS FOR RECEIVING SCHOOLS

Schools that receive additional students through consolidation will be allocated a proportion of the total programmatic savings that result from Rightsizing actions. This allocation will be distributed as discretionary FTE that can be used for instructional coaching, academic intervention, school climate support, social work, or duty support. School principals, with consultation from their school communities and approval from their Senior Directors of Instructional Leadership, will determine how to use these additional investments.

School transition supports: Teams from Central Office have developed a framework for implementing Rightsizing. This includes a menu of transition supports for all impacted school communities. This work is informed by lessons learned by districts across the country that have had successful school consolidations. The implementation framework includes guidance on merging academic programs and school-based teams, (such as Instructional Leadership, Climate, PTAs and others) tools, resources, and timelines. The framework includes timelines for merging school communities and onboarding staff, families and students to their new campuses. It also includes staffing timelines and plans for packing and moving furniture and instructional resources. This comprehensive framework will be shared with the community in December. If the Board of Education votes to proceed with Rightsizing for fall 2027, Central Office teams will begin working with school communities in January to implement transition supports appropriate to each community.
